Student Feedback:

The open-ended responses from students in the survey were categorized into several key areas:

1. Exam Organization and Timing:

- Students expressed significant dissatisfaction with the short intervals between exams.
- It was suggested that exams for distance learning students should be scheduled in alignment with the academic term.

2. Delayed Result Announcements:

- Many students highlighted that exam results were announced very late, negatively affecting their preparation for subsequent exams.

3. Difficulty and Transparency of Questions:

- Complaints were raised about the large number of questions and that some exams included questions from topics not covered in class.
- Transitioning to a test-based format was noted as more transparent and objective, especially in the Mechanics and Mathematics departments.

4. Behavior of Teachers and Invigilators:

- The rude behavior of invigilators increases student stress.
- Some students reported unfair grading practices by teachers in certain cases.

5. Quality of Teaching Materials:

- Some students felt that the teaching materials provided were insufficient for adequate exam preparation.
